

It's NOT the same as your home program!

At home you put all your recyclable materials together but at work we use a different system called a "Multi-Stream" recycling program. Multi-stream recycling has the advantage of reducing contamination by keeping paper separate from other recyclable materials such as cans and bottles. This helps maintain the integrity of the recycled material by increasing the raw purity of it at the source, thus ensuring a better result when it reaches its next destination! The cleaner the material, the better chance it has to be recycled to its fullest potential. This program requires you to be environmentally conscious of the choices you make -in regards to what container you put your different materials in- so it's important to educate yourself about both your home and work recycling programs. GWL and Wasteco are determined to make that easy for you by providing you with all the information needed to do the right thing!
